S PÁNEM BOHEM, MICHAEL, ....

a retired professor at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, passed away on July 10 after a long illness. Brigeta was an intrinsic part of the successful CSHA presidency of her husband Mike. For all of the eight years of his term, she was right there with him. In the thick of festival baking, hosting visiting folk groups, arranging venues and trips we heard her encouragement and her unforgettable and infectious laugh. Ten musicians from Uherské Hradiště of course, she said, we can have them here. And we did just that. Five of them stayed in the Krompholz's home, they borrowed a minivan and a cembalo, and the group performed two very well-attended concerts in Baltimore and in Annapolis. Brigeta is survived by her husband Michael, their daughter Inge Damstra and three grandchildren.

CSHA extends our condolences and sympathy to the families of our departed members. We also extend our thanks for sharing your loved ones with us.

THE FESTIVAL THAT ALMOST WASN'T by M. Supik, photos by Vanko, Havlik, Mendel

Despite a last minute change of location, made necessary by a scheduling glitch, our 31st Annual Czech and Slovak Festival turned out to be a big success. VFW Post 9083 in Parkville, although smaller than our usual venue, was able to accommodate a crowd of just over 300. Our caterers, Jaroslav and Zdenka Kulich, served their delicious svíčková and pork, sauerkraut and dumplings. Those who were lucky enough to get there early were able to buy whole dumplings and kolače to take home. The beverage of choice was, of course, české pivo; Dana Havlik, Dana Petran, Anna Losovsky, Olga Mendel provided lots of homemade pastries; hot dogs and bratwursts proved to be popular as well.

Music was again provided by Pajtasi, the well-known folk ensemble that played for us last year. They were the highlight of the afternoon. Here is what one of our good friends had to say about the musical experience he had at the Festival:

VČERA JSEM BYL U MUZIKY

by Vlad'a Jandásek

Actually it did not happen yesterday (včera) BUT on October 22nd. And it was great. The music was super. Long live Pajtasi from NY and their leader Braňo; George, and the sweet violonists, mother and daughter; and of course the cymbalist. I sat most of the time in the first row to soak up the unique performance that occurs here once a year thanks to the CSH Association of Maryland. A lot of people, young and old had a great time at the Čardaš dancing lesson that was conducted by a superb Slovak folk dancer from NY. Those included 3-year old Lucie Petran, 6-year old Nicole Iskra, and all, through the ages up to couples in their seventies! Many thanks to the dedicated organizers and helpers.

FOOD: Kdo pozdě chodí, sám sobě škodí (It is too bad if you come late). I came late and missed the Czech delight of Vepřo-Knedlo-Zelo. Fortunately there were the famous Binkert's hot-dogs. Next time, please, serve them on firm rolls.

PASTRY: My wife bought poppy seed koláč to take away. We stretched eating it for a week and it was delightful. So were the cookies that were given away to us out of friendship.

FOLK COSTUMES: Many beauties selling their home-made pastry wore pretty folk costumes. So were some dancers like Simona who participated in teaching Čardaš, little Lucie and Nicole and Mr. Hybl who did not miss one round. And of course the music band. And some organizers. Who caught my eye was the costumed pastry chef Viera Sabol singing away and making dance steps behind her counter next to the music band while waiting for customers. That all contributed to the festive spirit. My heart goes to a pretty old doll in a folk costume whose name I do not know although I see her at every festival. When she was leaving the parking lot in her car I blew her kisses. I hope to meet her next time as I hope to meet all of the people again. Howgh!

Zapadlý Vlastenec from Dover, Delaware, Vlad'a Jandásek. September 30th October 2017

Over the years, about 25 actually, our Festival has evolved along a pretty predictable path. We knew how many vendors we could accommodate, we knew the size of the dance floor, and when the beer could be delivered. Changing our location, especially at the last minute, required everyone to adapt, to quickly develop new ways of carrying out tasks that had become almost routine. But WE DID IT! Thanks to the hard work of our board members and volunteers, the festival that almost wasn't proved to be a big success. And thanks to our attendees for sticking with us even though the location was unfamiliar.
